Budget Debate Ends With Test

OTTAWA (CP) — The four-day Commons debate on last week's budget ends tonight with a vote on a Conservative motion of non-confidence in the Trudeau administration.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas said Wednesday his party will side with the Conservatives in the motion criticizing the government for failing to curb inflation and at the same time "increasing the hardship on the unemployed, the poor, pensioners, farmers, and other victims of the just society."

Despite NDP support, the motion appears headed for certain defeat in the Liberal-dominated Commons. Standings in the 264-seat House are Liberal 154, Conservative 72, NDP 22, Creditiste 14, Independent 1, vacant 1.

Mr. Douglas said the budget speech delivered by Finance Minister E. J. Benson would do little or nothing to combat inflation in Canada.

Mr. Douglas said the government had achieved a balanced budget, the first in 11 years, by "the hardships and the heartache of the most defenceless segments of our society."

He heaped great scorn on the two-per-cent social development tax "which is paid solely on wages and salaries... and is not paid by corporations."

"To make matters even worse, it applies only to the first $6,000 of taxable income, so people with $40,000 or $50,000 a year are to pay the same tax as somebody earning $8,000 or $10,000 a year."

He said Mr. Benson also was using unemployment as a weapon against inflation.

In another major speech, Revenue Minister Jean-Pierre Cote said he has become concerned because taxpayers who question their assessments or pay a token amount of their taxes are treated exactly the same as those who ignore his department's requests for payments.

While he could see no change in practices for those ignoring requests for tax payments, he said reasonable judgment will be used for others owing small amounts.

Language Rights Bill Near To Final Stage In Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The idea that a Canadian citizen should have as much right to deal with his government in French as in English—if he wants to—look a step closer towards enshrinement in the law of the country Wednesday.

The federal government's official languages bill won unanimous approval in committee and headed back to the Commons, where it is expected to come up for third and final reading next week.

All four political parties were represented on the 12-member special committee, headed by John Roberts (L.-York-Simcoe). In the course of its detailed study of the bill, which began June 3, the committee wrote in some 20 amendments, including a few proposed by opposition MPs.

No fundamental changes were made, however.

The bill declares English and French to be official languages for all the business of Parliament and the federal government, with equal status and privileges.

To give practical effect to this declaration where possible, the bill would authorize the establishment of bilingual districts in parts of the country where the official minority group, French-speaking or English-speaking as the case may be, is of significant size. In such districts, the federal government would be required to make its services available in both languages.

Shuswap Plan Still Secret

OTTAWA (Special) — The government said Wednesday it does not want to release documents dealing with the proposed Shuswap River diversion plan until an agreement has been signed with British Columbia.

Mark Rose (NDP-Fraser Valley West) is calling for the production of all documents exchanged between federal and provincial departments in relation to a proposal that water from the Shuswap be diverted to the Okanagan River basin.

R. J. Orange, parliamentary secretary to the minister of energy, mines and resources, said officers of the federal department were engaged in negotiations with their counterparts in B.C.

An agreement which would cover a broad range of joint studies of the Okanagan River basin and the possibility of diversion from the Shuswap was being negotiated. But he said the documents should remain confidential until after the execution of an agreement and he asked Mr. Rose to withdraw his motion.

But Mr. Rose said he was disappointed with the government's reaction to the question and asked that his motion be transferred for debate at an early opportunity.

Moon Landing Course Steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration say there is a good chance that the Apollo 11 moon-landing mission will keep to its schedule of a July 16 launch and touchdown on the moon four days later.

The final decision has yet to be made as top space agency planners this week examine the mission in detail at their regular monthly session. One man close to the program said Wednesday, "It looks like a go operation."

CHEESE, BOOZE A FATAL MIX?

LONDON (Reuters) — English cheddar cheese may have caused Sgt. Paul Meyer of the United States Air Force to steal a giant Hercules transport plane which carried him to his death, it was reported Wednesday.

American investigators were reported checking to see whether the chemical combination of cheese and alcohol could have affected the mental state of the 23-year-old American ground crew sergeant.

A substance in cheese called amine can react violently on the brain with certain depressant drugs; with alcohol added it could produce a deadly chemical combination, chemical experts said.

Reds Split Over Czechs

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Communist parties of Spain and Switzerland have joined the Italian and Australian parties in open criticism of the Warsaw pact intervention in Czechoslovakia.

The latest disagreement with the Moscow line was disclosed today in the official account of the last three sessions of the world Communist summit meeting here.

The Russian party organ Pravda meanwhile praised Czechoslovak party chief Gustav Husak for his speech at yesterday's summit session as "a precise and instructive analysis" of what happened in Czechoslovakia last year.

Pravda indicated its displeasure at the Swiss and Spanish stand by singling out the speeches of delegates from pro-intervention parties for approval.

The speeches of the delegates of the Canadian, Portuguese, Peruvian and Brazilian Communist parties "were imbued with an understanding of the great responsibility of their parties in the anti-imperialist struggle."

Stock Markets Keep Sliding

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued down on the New York, Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges today in the wake of the Canadian bank interest rate increases Wednesday.

At Toronto, where about $2,814,000,000 was shaved from stock prices Wednesday in the sharpest one-day drop in history for industrial issues, the market appeared to be settling in moderate trade.

DOLLAR RISES

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar up 1-64 at 92½ in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling down 5-64 at $2.38 29-32.

LET IT SNOW, LET IT SNOW... BUT IN JUNE PRAIRIES ASK

EDMONTON (CP) — Snow? In June? This was the reaction of most of southern Alberta today after a series of small cold fronts surged across the province and left the unseasonable white stuff on the ground between Red Deer and Lethbridge.

Saskatchewan also bore the brunt of the cold. Six centres set record low temperatures with readings below the 30-degrees, nine below the previous record set in 1927 and equalled in 1933.

Saskatoon reached 29, one below the 1942 record. Estevan was 27, 11 below the 1939 and 1955 record and Moose Jaw was 27, four below the previous record set in 1955. It dipped to 27 in Swift Current, six below the 1942 record and to 29 in North Battleford, five below the 1945 mark.

Most of Alberta experienced frost overnight with the Edmonton International Airport 17 miles south of the capital reaching the provincial low of 21 degrees.

Penhold, 10 miles south of Red Deer, dropped to 23 degrees and Fort McMurray, 230 miles north of Edmonton, dropped to 25.

Light to moderate snow fell in Calgary until midnight but melted when the sun rose today.

Viet Cong's New Government Takes Seat At Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong's new provisional revolutionary government took over the seat of the National Liberation Front at the Vietnam peace talks today and declared its readiness "to continue negotiations with the other parties of the conference."

The changeover took place at the 21st session of the talks and was accomplished without objection from the United States and South Vietnam. Both contended they were dealing with "the other side" and that the change of name was not significant.

Speaking for the first time as foreign minister of the newly proclaimed government, Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh formally declared the NLF had transferred all its state functions, including control of the delegation at the peace talks, to the provisional government.

BARTENDERS JOINED BY...

Strange Allies At Liquor Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bartenders throughout British Columbia were backed Wednesday by the Pentecostal Assembly of Canada in their bid to halt further expansion of drinking outlets.

Both told the B.C. liquor inquiry commission they don't want any extension in the traffic in alcoholic beverages.

The Pentecostal Union told the commission in a brief that "90 per cent of all B.C.'s hotel liquor outlets are organized and such union houses were paying the highest wages in this industry in Canada."

It opposed the increase of draught beer licences to cabarets and restaurants, opposed the idea of selling alcoholic beverages in supermarkets, opposed the neighborhood pub and was against the idea of lowering the drinking age to 19.

Eric A. Hornby, district superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, offered a brief on behalf of his 117 churches and 10,000 adult members in B.C.

Spending Rights Divide Provinces At Secret Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — With opinions obviously divided, the 10 provincial premiers went behind closed doors again today with Prime Minister Trudeau in hopes of reaching a consensus in the difficult area of federal spending powers.

Once this subject is dealt with, the leaders will go on to the question of regional disparities where there appears to be sharp disagreement shaping up. Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher said he understands the federal government is preparing to spend most of its regional expansion monies in eastern provinces and the West will not take this lying down.

"If they try to bring in something like this, they're heading for another confrontation with Western Canada," said Mr. Thatcher. He said there are reports that Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand told provincial representatives Tuesday that 90 per cent of the money will be spent east of Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Mr. Marchand, asked where the 90-per-cent figure arose, replied: "Beats me."

Ford 'Forgiven' Customs Debt

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ford Motor Co. was forgiven about $75,000,000 of the $80,000,000 remitted in customs duties to car manufacturers earlier this year, the Commons public accounts committee was told today.

The list of 14 companies benefiting from the duty remission was read to the committee by G. R. Long, assistant auditor-general, when the committee ordered him to do so.

The disclosure followed an unsuccessful effort by some Liberal members of the committee to defer the issue and seek a legal opinion as to whether the auditor-general's office had to supply the information.

DIDN'T MEET CONDITIONS

In the auditor-general's report for the 1967-68 fiscal year, presented to the Commons this year, it was stated that manufacturers who had failed to meet all the conditions of a 1965 U.S.-Canadian tariff agreement owed an estimated total of $43,600,000 in customs duties as of March 31, 1968.

"The West will not be left out," said Mr. Marchand. But before the conference goes on to the question of regional disparity, it must first complete the first item on the agenda-federal spending powers and tax sharing.

Reports have been published that the federal government has offered the provinces a plan that would give Ontario and Quebec veto powers over federal-provincial shared-cost programs.

An aide to the prime minister said these reports are "garbled."

Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick, asked whether these reports are accurate, replied: "Nobody would accept that concept." But Mr. Thatcher, when he was asked whether he would accept any veto powers on shared-cost programs, replied: "We might if we had no choice."

Mr. Robichaud, who with Mr. Thatcher was the most talkative of the premiers on the second day of the constitutional conference, said he doesn't think there should be any limitation on federal spending powers.

He said the question of Senate representation, which was rumored to be heavily involved in Wednesday's opening session, will come up for discussion today.

Hush-Hush Policy Stands

The secrecy surrounding the conference continued to be unusually tight, with confused and conflicting rumors being circulated. But Mr. Trudeau repeated again that this is a working session, and no constitutional changes will be implemented without further open meetings.

"I admire this," said the prime minister, as reporters badgered him for answers, "but you should relax."

When a reporter said it was his job to get information, the prime minister asked whether this means the reporters will be fired if he refused to say anything. A reporter said yes.

Mr. Trudeau laughed and clamped a hand over his mouth and then disappeared into the elevator.

Mr. Trudeau said after Wednesday's opening session there has been "a great deal of discussion" on the question of restricting federal spending powers.

Forest Fires Plague B.C. And Vast Areas Of Alaska

VANCOUVER (CP) — Forty new forest fires were reported Wednesday in British Columbia. Fires in Prince George and Kamloops districts are becoming more and more difficult to contain.

In Prince George district, there are three major fires burning out of control over a total of 5,800 acres near Fort St. John, 1,200 acres of alpine growth is burning out of control near Fort Nelson, and a lightning fire has spread over 2,500 acres on the Alie River near where it joins the Finlay.

The B.C. Forest Service now has 789 men and 67 bulldozers on the 133 fires burning in B.C.

Meanwhile W. C. Phillips, head of the forest protection service, said he received "verbal approval" Wednesday from Ottawa to bring in two water bombers from the United States to help at Kamloops. It is expected both craft will be in service today.

According to federal aviation regulations, foreign craft cannot be hired except in a national emergency.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Fires raged over thousands of acres of Alaska Wednesday in the midst of a heat wave.

The largest fire covered 105,000 acres about 45 miles east of Ft. Yukon.

A fire 10 miles northwest of Fairbanks was brought under control after burning some 120 acres.

Firefighters were on the scene of three new forest fires in the Fairbanks area, and four fires were being fought in the Anchorage district.

Ketchikan in southeastern Alaska was the hottest place in the state for the third straight day with a reading of 86 degrees.

Armed Forces May Be Cut As Result Of 3-Year Freeze

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's armed forces may be trimmed to a strength of roughly 85,000 during the next three years from the present 98,000, according to informed defence department sources.

The cut would be made necessary by the three-year freeze on military expenditures announced last week by Defence Minister Leo Cadieux.

Defence department planners are trying hard to plot expenditures in such a way that service manpower can be maintained at as high a level as possible.

The projected, tentative 85,000 figure is calculated largely on the toll expected to be taken by inflation between now and 1972—the period in which Canada's new defence posture is to be worked out.

Efforts of the defence planners appear to involve juggling of personnel and capital costs, plus spending shortfalls where possible.

Capping defence expenditures at the fiscal year 1969-70 level of $1,800,000,000, while costs keep going up, is tantamount of decreasing a cut in military strength unless equipment procurement is to go by the way-aside.

Poher Takes A New Look In Presidential Contest

The French presidential campaign moved toward its final stages today with Gaullist candidate Georges Pompidou maintaining a strong lead despite increasingly hotter attacks from lagging Centrist candidate Alain Poher. With only two more days of campaigning left before the decisive second-round balloting Sunday, Interim President Poher was stepping up his lightning cross-country trips and slaps at Gaullism in a desperate bid to bridge the 10-per-cent gap revealed in the latest polls. His switch in tactics from projecting the image of a calm and reassuring statesman to jabbing personal attacks on Pompidou—appeared to be having some effect. A poll published Wednesday showed Poher had inched up two per cent, lopping that amount off the following reported for his rival whose latest tally stood at 55 per cent. But 31 per cent remain uncommitted or plan to abstain.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP).—The Toronto stock market moved into its ninth consecutive day of decline today with a sharp opening loss in active mid-morning trading. The market posted its largest daily loss on record Wednesday following a Bank of Canada increase in its lending rate and increases in chartered bank prime rates. However, oils fought the trend of the market and advanced strongly. The main reason for the oil strength was a statement by Dome Pete that Panarctic Oils' well at Drake Point on Melville Island in the Canadian Arctic penetrated a section of "spotty oil staining" at 4,500 feet. Dome, as operator of the well for the Panarctic consortium of the federal government and various oil concerns, said the show is encouraging but not necessarily commercial. Early in May, Panarctic said natural gas was encountered in the well at 3,600 feet. Stocks of some companies with an interest in the Drake Point prospect were strong. Dome Pete gained 3 to 99, Bay Valley 2 to 34, Great Plains 2 1/2 to 36 1/2 and Canadian Gridoll 2 1/2 to 21 1/2. Trading in Trans-Prairie Pipe Lines and Place Gas was delayed at opening to match orders. Trans-Prairie was up 1 1/2 to 18 1/2 Wednesday and Place 51 cents to $2.70. On index, industrials dropped 1.02 to 184.33 and base metals .51 to 114.02. Western oils rose 4.65 to 285.26 and golds .03 to 251.73. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,375,000 shares compared with 1,384,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Highway Toll Less So Far

VICTORIA (CP).—Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said Wednesday the death toll on provincial highways for the first five months of the year was down 29 per cent from the same period in 1968, or 146 deaths compared with 219. Mr. Peterson said the decrease indicates that new programs governing impaired drivers and other Motor Vehicles Act infractions are having a marked effect.

Lion Of U.S. Labor Force John L. Lewis Dies Aged 89

WASHINGTON (AP).—John L. Lewis, the unsmiling, bushy-browed labor leader who defied presidents and the titans of industry to better the lot of America's working men, is dead.

The 89-year-old former leader of 500,000 coal miners and founder of the CIO, died Wednesday night at Doctors Hospital where he had been admitted Sunday night, suffering from internal bleeding.

In his time, Lewis put a spark of light in the coal black future of thousands of miners in the soot-grim company towns and backwoods hollows.

The unsmiling labor giant with the lionine head and shoulders like feed sacks often was called a dictator. He was accused of stopping the United States in its tracks. He said, "the nation's coal is stained with blood."

His last words to a reporter—five years ago—was "organize" the same language he used in leading the United Mine Workers Union and founding the CIO, his leadership and dealt with

Harry Bridges, another controversial labor figure and boss of the longshoremen's union, said about Lewis: "He wrote history in words, deeds and action. I've never seen his equal yet, and I don't expect to live long enough to do so."

Lewis could be mean.

As a youth in the mines he was kicked by a mule. He brained the mule with a "sprang," the wooden break lever of a coal car. In 1935, he floored an AFL leader at a union convention with one punch.

But the leader of the United Mine Workers for 40 years and moving force in the drive to organize the country's unskilled workers could also be eloquent and ironic.

Lewis' contributions to labor were two-fold.

He fused scores of scattered, ineffective miners locals around the U.S. and Canada into a 400,000-member phalanx under his leadership and dealt with miners woes and hopes on an industrywide basis.

This led to their first pensions, their own hospitals, quintupled wages, and underground travel pay the length of a mine corridor. He once said of his miners: "I am their agent. They pay my salary. They keep me in good clothes. They buy me cigars. I work for them. I expect to continue."

Lewis knew his share about mines.

He was born in Lucas, Iowa, the son of a Welsh coal miner. His mother came from a Welsh mining family. He quit school at 12 and went into the coal pit.

In 1907 he married Myrta Edith Bell. She was his intellectual prod, leading him in Bible study, pointing out the joys of Shakespeare and the town's theatre productions. Myrta died in 1942. They had two children.

Survivors include a son, Dr. John L. Lewis Jr., of Baltimore. A daughter, Kathryn, died in January, 1962.

Consumers' Group Socked During Meeting In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP).—Delegates to the Consumers' Association of Canada got a buffet of criticism at their annual meeting Wednesday as well as pats on the back for their achievements. On the one hand, they had to roll with the punches—suggestions that they were a middle-class, unrepresentative group which was sometimes misinformed, relatively small in membership and limited financially.

On the other, they were praised for having accomplished as much as they had and for their interest in consumer protection. Most of the blows landed during an afternoon panel discussion at which at least one of the speakers—a Toronto management consultant—was expected to air controversial views.

Henry Skinner, president of Skinner, Thomas and Associates Ltd., defended a previous statement that industry's prevalent impression of the Consumers' Association of Canada is that it is "a group of meddling do-gooders."

"Behind the corporate office walls, Canadian industry has no high regard for your activities," he told the more than 100 delegates, mostly women. "Many businessmen feel you are occasionally badly misinformed and frequently naive."

Businessmen regarded the association's activities which directly concerned them as "a confounded nuisance, but rarely as a serious threat to their established business practices."

However, there was a need for a unified consumers' voice in Canada. The consumer's association might begin a new era if it constructively tackled its major problems—financial weakness, lack of membership, and "a fuzzy, weak, negative, incorrect public image."

Ample Water Expected

All Okanagan reservoirs have an excellent water supply for the long summer, the department of water resources reported today.

Inflow into Okanagan lake has been less than in early May, but the lake has reached approximately four-tenths of a foot below maximum operating level. The 6,000-foot Mission Creek and Silver Star courses suffered greater than average snowpack losses and both measured below average water equivalents.

Snowpacks are below average throughout the province, except on lower coastal and Vancouver Island watersheds. Many are free of snow, while all had heavy water losses in the past two weeks.

Due to less than average rainfall in May, water catches were less than normal except in the Columbia basin.

Major snow melt rivers followed the weather trend with rise and fall of river stages in unison with warm and cool periods. The highest stages recorded to date were those at the termination of the warm spell near the end of May when most rivers rose to levels below or close to their previous annual minimums.

The graph breakdown for the area is:

Drainage Basin	Elev. Snow	Water	Depth	Equiv.	Avg.
Kettle
Big White Mountain	5500		9.8	5.2	10.8
East Okanagan
Mission Creek	6000		13.3	5.4	11.2
Silver Star Mountain	6050		14.6	7.6	15.7
Mount Kobau	5850		No Snow		2.8

People Involved Organization Receives Support From KADAC

The Kelowna and District Arts Council will give financial and personnel assistance to People Involved, a new local group hoping to open a drop-in centre in the city for inter-communication with people of all ages, through arts and "dialogue."

A delegation from the organization headed by Jim Wilson attended the regular meeting of the KADAC Monday. They had previously appealed to the council for use of the old museum building, but were asked by city fathers to get permission to try to utilize the curling rink for their operations.

Other KADAC business included a report from Garfield McKinley on a Jeunesses Musicales brief submitted to the school board recommending Jeunesses concerts be part of the school program next fall. The arts council will write the board endorsing the suggestion. Mrs. Lorne Lambrecht, KADAC membership chairman, told the meeting a drive is currently being conducted to elicit more members from service clubs; while Mrs. W. J. O'Donnell reported an address by city planner, Greg Stevens at a recent meeting pertaining to control of signs within city and district. Gordon Hartley was appointed to the sign committee.

The Provincial Arts Council will meet at Penticon in November. Udis Arais informed the council. He attended the quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Regional Arts Council at Winfield last week and was a member of a panel on visual and three dimensional arts. Members were also informed the Central Okanagan Social Planning Council has asked the KADAC to join them in a meeting with the parks and recreation committee to consider all aspects of the recent recreation report.

Arts council president and meeting chairman, Mrs. Thomas Robinson, announced the community concert campaign had been successfully concluded, with 643 members joining the organization. She also reported Richard Ketchum had agreed to be chairman of the fall fiesta. Next KADAC meeting will be in September.

Agencies assisting in the snow survey are: Brenda Mines Ltd.; Glenmore Irrigation District; Oyama Irrigation District; S. M. Simpson Ltd.; Vernon Irrigation District and West Kootenay Power and Light Company.

Motorists Face Court

A Kelowna woman whose car skidded 53-feet and came to rest in a ditch at the dead-end of Ethel Street pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without due care and attention in court today.

Karen Harding was fined $50 as a result of the charge laid May 31.

Also in Kelowna court today Francis Wirachowsky, Rutland, was fined $35 when he entered a guilty plea to a charge of going 85 mph in a 50 zone.

"It was only for a brief time," he told magistrate R. J. S. Moir after entering his plea.

Roger Ernest Paul was fined $75 after pleading guilty to a charge of passing when unsafe. He was charged after crossing into the opposite lane of Harvey Avenue and forcing a policeman to brake to avoid collision.

No Ticket Not Guilty

Maybe you can't fight city hall, but a Kelowna woman is trying to do just that; at least take on their parking control regulations.

Mrs. Isabel Forry told Magistrate R. J. S. Moir today she intended to plead not guilty to a parking violation when she appeared in Kelowna court.

"I never received a ticket or a letter, so all I'm going to say is that I'm not guilty," Mrs. Forry said.

She was remanded until July 10 for trial.

Parts Gone Overnight

A number of valuable tools and a four-speed transmission were stolen from two Kelowna residents during the night RCMP reported today.

A timing light, torque wrench and rear wheel puller were stolen from Ray Parton's service station. No illegal entry was reported.

The transmission, belonging to Craig Cretin, was stolen from a lumber yard parking lot. A drive shaft was also stolen.

SUNNY and warm weather is forecast for today and Friday in the Central Okanagan. Light winds should provide relief from the continuing high temperatures. The predicted low tonight and high Friday is 58 and 88. The high Wednesday was 88, nine degrees below the Canada high of 97 at Kamloops, and low was 59. A year ago this day the high and low temperatures were 66 and 49.

FINED $25

Larry Raymond Ross, Ontario, was fined $25 today for failing to produce a valid driver's licence while in control of a motor vehicle. Ross was stopped for a routine check on Glenmore Street at 2:35 a.m. Wednesday.

Gilbert Perrault, Kelowna, was fined $15 for speeding.

Tourist Season Boom Predicted In District

Busiest Visitor Season In History Predicted By Some Industry People

If you don't like tourists, now's the time to pack and leave town, because the Kelowna area is standing on the brink of what promises to be the biggest tourist season ever.

Those who do like tourists—hotel and motel owners, restaurant operators and so on—are bracing themselves for the annual bonanza as city streets fill with out-of-town licence plates.

The Okanagan's second largest industry—after fruit marketing—is expected to get into full swing at the end of this month.

"The tourists don't really hit the road until July," Ernie Cowan, manager of the Capri said today. "They'll start arriving on the long weekend, and then we're away."

"I am predicting one of our biggest years," Mr. Cowan said, in part due to the sheer increase in population.

There are more cars, more licences being issued, more of just about everything, he pointed out. "We're bound to have more people here."

The city can also look forward to a healthy trade of tourists with Spokane, this year's honor city for Regatta. In the motel business, predictions for the tourist season range from "good" to "unbelievable." Many operators have taken on extensive remodeling operations during the winter.

Geoff Tozer, owner of the Inn Tower, claims June business is "quite far ahead" of other years, with reservations better than average.

"I seem to be getting more people from the west coast than in other years; this trade seemed to be falling off during the past few seasons but seems to be picking up again," Mr. Tozer said.

At out-of-town motels, June appears to be an average month, although reservations for the summer are heavy.

"The last part of August is really heavy," said Mrs. Marion Bilida, manageress of the Beach Beach Motel; "I've had five or six letters every day."

"There are more Americans this year than before."

One man who predicts Kelowna will face an overcrowding problem this summer is Arman Diwert, owner of Tent Town, one of two camping and trailer grounds in the city area. Due to recent government changes in camp ground regulations, the number of camping spaces in the city has been drastically cut—from about 500 last year, to about 250 now, according to Mr. Diwert.

"This will be a very good year, but the Regatta is going to suffer because of lack of space for trailers and campers; they'll have to commute from Vernon and Penticon."

He said even last year, trailer parks were turning people away daily. "I've tried to get the city to build more camp grounds, but they're not interested; it's too expensive."

Penticon, apparently, can come up with 3,000 camping spaces within a six-mile radius. Kelowna can scrape together 1,000 if Westbank is included.

In the restaurant business, there has been "nothing startling yet," according to Merv Lepper, owner of the Colony Restaurant. "But the tourists are obviously here; things should really get along after June 20 when more kids are out of school."

"The summer looks good to me," he said, adding he has so far had guests from as far away as India, Rome, Fiji and P.E.I.

Also tabulating guests from far-away places is the chamber of commerce, now covering both approaches to the city with tourist information booths.

"People are probably a little earlier than usual this year," said Bill Stevenson, manager of the Kelowna chamber. "We've had more inquiries than usual."

Scanning his guest book he picked out visitors from England, the Yukon, Texas, Germany, Quebec, Scotland, Mexico, and—Rutland! I knew we'd find one of those exotic places on the list."

An average of 30 inquiries per day are being handled at the chamber's main office on the west side of Okanagan Lake bridge, and about 20 per day at the new information booth on the eastern approach to Kelowna on Highway 91 near White Trucks.

Every one seems to have a different idea of where most tourists are coming from. Summing up, Mr. Stevenson said he is expecting "the usual bunch from all over the place."

Aid Ready For Readers

This summer school district 23 (Kelowna) is again offering the development reading course for students in Grades 4 to 6.

If your child is having trouble with reading and you are interested in this opportunity for him to improve his reading skills, application forms can be obtained from your child's school principal.

For further information contact John Ross, summer school director, in the day at 5-5161 and in the evening at 2-0980.

'Murder' On Tonight

Intrigue and foul play, interlarded with suspense are the ingredients for good drama.

All these elements are present in Kelowna Little Theatre's production of the three-act drama mystery, The Sound of Murder, which opens tonight at the community theatre.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. for the adaptation of an English mystery, and the play will run for three days.

Police Hold Coast Youth

An unidentified youth is being held by Kelowna RCMP until his parents arrive from the Coast to take him home.

Police apprehended the boy when a city resident discovered him sleeping on her lawn. A check with Coast authorities proved the youth to be a "run-away."

NOT 'TIL AUGUST
A summer recess was unanimously approved by the Okanagan College Council at its regular meeting Monday.

Due to a summer decrease in business necessary for the council's pursuit it will not meet until August; although emergency sessions can be called at any time by the president. The principal's report will be mailed to all members.

ARRESTED
Two juveniles have been arrested in connection with the breaking and entering of the department of highways building in Rutland April 27.

RCMP said nothing was stolen in the break-in.

MIDWAY ORGANIZED

The Kinsmen Club of Kelowna will again operate the popular midway at the Kelowna International Regatta. The games of skill and chance, long a favorite with Regatta crowds, will be staffed by volunteer Kinsmen members and their wives during the four-day Regatta, Aug. 6 to 9. Posing here with Regatta director-general Dick Gunoff, left, are Kinsmen Club Lady of the Lake candidate Lynn Clark and Kinsmen midway chairman Mike Laine. Proceeds from the midway this year will go toward the swimming pool fund.

DDF Committee Workers Thanked By John Bennett

Congratulations, Kelowna, you did a good job.

That's the word this week from Dr. John Bennett, still catching his breath after organizing the Dominion Drama Festival finals here last month.

Two letters from the local chairman were on the city council agenda Monday, praising both Kelowna citizens and members of his committee for their work and co-operation, as well as Jim Hayes, special events co-ordinator, who acted as secretary for the DDF committee.

In part, the letters read: "On behalf of the 1969 Dominion Drama Festival Final committee, may I take this opportunity of thanking the municipal council and the citizens of Kelowna for their tangible assistance in hosting the 1969 final festival."

"One of the highlights of the week was the civic luncheon and I think, gentlemen, you saw the warm feeling toward Kelowna demonstrated at that luncheon by visitors from all 10 provinces."

"Since the close of the festival, I have received many letters from people in all provinces who attended the Kelowna final festival and without exception, they are high in their praise of the hospitality; of the kindness of Kelowna people; of the very successful organization of the festival by the local committee."

"In conclusion, I wish to state I have enjoyed bringing the DDF Final festival to Kelowna, and to have had the opportunity to work with such an excellent committee. While the chairman always comes in for the bouquets (and the brickbats), may I say that no one on the committee was seeking self-glorification and that all the tangible benefits which accrue from hosting a major national event were sought after with the good of Kelowna and its citizens in mind."

"I have been the recipient of many congratulatory letters from all over Canada and these I have accepted on behalf of the committee. In this connection, I would like to state that, while credit is due to everyone on the final committee and sub-committees, a lot of the accolades stem directly from the tremendous work done by Mr. Hayes."

They'll Check Your Vessel

One of the best ways to ensure a safe and successful season of boating is to be sure your craft is in top shape. This opportunity will be provided this month by both the Westbank and Kelowna Yacht Clubs.

The Westbank club, with the help of the Kelowna RCMP marine section, will inspect vessels this Saturday between 1 and 3 p.m. The following Saturday, from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m., boats will be inspected at the Kelowna Yacht Club. The inspections are sponsored by the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Power Squadron.

The C.A.R.S. reminds everyone that early diagnosis of arthritis is important. If you have persistent pain and stiffness in the joints and suffer general fatigue, see your doctor.

June 18 Party Date

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society's summer party will be held June 18 at 2 p.m. at the Capri.

Plans for the party were outlined to the board of directors at its monthly meeting by Mrs. E. R. Winter, president of the women's auxiliary to C.A.R.S.

Local firemen will drive wheelchair patients to the party and Rudy Weinburg has donated a wheelchair for C.A.R.S. patient use. Entertainment is planned and refreshments will be served.

During May the C.A.R.S. clinic at the Kelowna General Hospital gave 125 treatments and Mrs. Jim Burbridge, physiotherapist, gave 47 home treatments. Mrs. Burbridge recently attended a two-day course at UBC and two one-day workshops dealing with therapeutic treatments.

The C.A.R.S. reminds everyone that early diagnosis of arthritis is important. If you have persistent pain and stiffness in the joints and suffer general fatigue, see your doctor.

SEEN and HEARD

The board of health staff can be seen these days dragging a "one of a kind" item through the murky depths of Okanagan Lake. The item is a submarine phonometer and its purpose is to see just how murky the depths are; it measures, with two photo-sensitive cells, the depth of light in a body of water. Kinsmen donated money for the instrument, which is reputed to be the only one in Western Canada and a "vast improvement" over methods previously employed.

Girl guides and brownies in the area will be walking Saturday to raise funds for building a camp. About $2,000 is needed to expand buildings at Camp Arbuckle, used by the girl guide movement. The walkathon begins at Kelowna City Park and makes a sweep through the downtown area as far as Glenmore Park. Chaparrons will attend.

Walking to work is always popular when the Okanagan spring weather begins to improve. But today, with the temperatures close to 75 degrees before 8:30 a.m., the stroll wasn't as pleasant as it could be. Cars offer a bit of shade, but also eliminate the exercise benefits.

You can say what you like about the vicious circle of rising prices and wages, but there is one noticeable sign of affluence throughout Kelowna and district. Many people this spring are having their driveways paved. Gone are the days when gravel was a sign of wealth.

In spite of the efforts of Sir John A. MacDonald, Canadians will not get a long weekend in July. The government is sticking to the letter of the Dominion Day Act that says: "the holiday shall be observed on July 1, date of confederation in 1867, unless that date falls on a Sunday." Unfortunately Dominion Day falls on Tuesday this year so June 30 is just another working Monday.

Kelowna sees some odd-ball hitch hikers passing through, and one of the oddest was sticking out his thumb recently at Harvey Avenue and Abbott Street. The bearded traveller was sitting off the curb, almost entirely hidden by a car wheel. Only his head and thumb were visible above the wheel. Was he buying a car in installments across country ("I got a good deal on a carburetor in Inuvik"), or simply having a flat tire repaired?

An old timer's story about how Siamois received its name goes like this. According to legend, a Scotsman travelling by train through the area north of the Okanagan, saw a huge animal from his window. Astonished, he asked the other passengers what kind of animal it was. "A moose," they said. And to this the amazed Scotsman replied, "Sic a moose!", which translated to Scottish means—such a mouse.

Water bags appear to be making a slight comeback. Not too many years ago no self-respecting traveller would dare set out without his trusty water bag hanging from the car. As service stations sprung up and other facilities improved, the bags began to disappear, but several have been seen in the city this year.

STAMP OUT ALGAE

Fight Continues On Okanagan Lakes Pollution

By DON MACLACHLAN
Civil and medical authorities report partial victory in the battle against the "great green bloom" of algae that pollute the Okanagan lakes, feeding on tons of dumped wastes.

"There are no fresh outfalls of effluents," said Dr. David A. Clarke, head of the South Okanagan Health Unit. "We are winning. All we have to do now is to get rid of the old courses."

Local officials say that's easier said than done, and for a start they need more money. They're pressing for a regional approach and seek, with some optimism, federal or provincial money or both.

Though Dr. Clarke hits out at what he calls a "let-get-out attitude, the professional pollution fighter and thorn in the side of politicians agrees: "The next move is to help financially."

In the end, the Okanagan's lakes could be cleaner this year than they were last summer, when controversy reached a furious peak, though experts say this would be as much due to luck as to progress.

"We had lake ice in the winter which helped keep down growth," said Prof. T. L. Coulthard, of university of British Columbia. "But no one knows until we get the hot, dry weather."

Last summer, algae and weed cut the visibility through the water of Skaha Lake to six feet; it was 18 in 1966. Okanagan Lake was down to 20 feet visibility in spots; Kamalak Lake averaged about 37 feet.

Actually, the Okanagan Lake range of up to 40 feet was much the same as in 1935. But that, said Dr. Clarke, is no reason to take lightly the problem of dumped nutrients that promote algae.

Five municipal sewage plants pumped almost 200 tons of phosphorus and nitrogen nutrients into the lakes last year, the health unit says. And four industrial plants added some 625 tons of sugar wastes.

The ideal answer, says Prof. Tim O'Hara of Simon Fraser University, is "tertiary" treatment of wastes, followed by disposal of the effluent on land, away from lakes. Local authorities agree.

But such treatment is costly. Kelowna has designed a tertiary unit that would cost $300,000, and that doesn't include an unknown bill for land disposal. Penticon has hopes for a $300,000 plant.

"The point is," said Prof. O'Hara, "no one's done any pilot studies of this so everyone turns around and says, 'Well, there isn't such a thing as this in Canada, therefore we don't know whether it works.'"

There is a model tertiary treatment plant along these lines at Lake Tahoe, Calif. Municipal men from the Okanagan region, including Ted Lawrence, Kelowna's city engineer, have examined it.

About the first thing they found: a $13,000,000 bill for the plant alone. They also found most of the money came from state and federal governments, and they seek this kind of help for the Okanagan.

WANT MORE HELP

Said Mr. Lawrence: "Our attitude is that our nutrient removal plant would be the first in Canada and would be a research project. We want the federal and provincial governments to go in with us."

Skaha Lake, south of Penticon, is unanimously described as the worst. Doctors reported "swimming-associated illnesses" there in 1967. This was cut in 1968, because dominant algae were non-toxic.

Dr. Clarke's health unit also reported "taste and odor problems" from decomposing algae in Skaha. The community of Okanagan Falls planned to drill its own well and stop drawing water from the lake.

There is one consolation, said Mayor F. D. Stuart of Penticon. That is that the water in Skaha Lake, fed from narrow, 80-mile-long Okanagan Lake, turns over every two years, so it can be cleaned up.

Authorities say Skaha has provided a graphic, if uncomfortable, lesson of what can happen. They agree that if Okanagan Lake, with a turnover of 40-to-50 years, becomes heavily polluted, it's game over.

Dr. Clarke tempered optimistic statements from local authorities with the suggestion that even if nutrient flow stopped tomorrow, algae problems would continue. How seriously, he didn't know.

FLOW CONTINUES

Meanwhile, effluents from existing sources, communities, firms and farms in the tourist and orchard area of 120,000 people, continue to flow into the string of Okanagan lakes.

Studies continue on several fronts. Dr. Clarke tours the area lugging bottles of dirty water with him. Municipal officials fly to Ottawa and Victoria with briefs pleading for assistance.

Under fire for dumping sugar waste, a Kelowna winery not alone in dumping—charged in $5,000 for a municipal abatement—Ottawa—now bids for a $20,000 contribution.

"One thing we shouldn't forget," said Dr. Clarke, "is that people are quite tuned in to this nutrient thing. It's the best pollution control in the world. They are concerned."

Short Takes

The proposed arrival and departure fee for Kelowna airport is not something new. Most airports now have some such system and most air travellers have paid it, perhaps unwittingly. The whole idea, and a rather commendable one, is to have the airport users pay a major part of its cost. In the local case, city of Kelowna taxpayers have been carrying the load while the airport facilities have been used by travellers from and to other Valley points. The new fee will have these travellers as well as Kelowna city travellers contribute something to the cost of airport operations. If there are 50,000 arrivals and departures from the Kelowna field—and there should be more—that would mean an additional $50,000 revenue to carry part of the operating cost of the airport.

It begins to look as though Canadians will soon have a national coding system for the mails. The Financial Post says the new system will be more advanced than the United States zip code system but based on the same principle—to make all the mail in the nation move under one coding system. The idea is to speed the sorting and delivery of mail. No one certainly will object to that as there is considerable room for improvement.

The first results of a survey released by the National Retailers' Institute indicates that the long-drawn-out struggle for nonrestrictive shopping hours is far from ended. Generally well-established downtown merchants prefer to limit shopping to traditional daytime hours, the report says. On the other hand, the new breed of merchandisers generally located in suburban shopping centres wants night shopping. The report gives some preliminary conclusions: Consumers prefer to shop outside the traditional 9-to-6 hours. (In Edmonton 69 per cent voted in favor of no control over hours); retail merchants are losing business by their failure to provide more shopping times; as of 1967 women made up one-third of the working force and also one-third of all married women are working; the 9-to-6 traditional hours for retailing outlets are therefore not convenient for a larger percentage of housewives to shop, the report says.

One wonders what prompts senseless vandalism. A few days ago a new fence was constructed next to Strathcona Park. It was a nice fence and painted green to blend with the scrubbery. Now two boards are off and one broken. Why? It was not the work of little kids; the fence was built much too strongly. Did teen-agers want a board to use as a raft? Or did they just give in to a destructive urge? Either way they knew they were destroying private property. This urge for senseless destruction of public and private property is becoming something more than a casual nuisance. Some day the miscreants will be identified and then, it is to be hoped, they will be given a stiff sentence to serve as an example for others of their ilk.

Gibraltar has a new constitution and its pages bristle with human rights, so exactly defined as to make any union with Spain nearly impossible. It can only be revoked by an act of the British Parliament. But it is noteworthy that the status of the territory has not really changed. Gibraltar cannot be described as independent, being still in all but name a crown colony with a governor and a commander-in-chief. This arrangement forestalls any argument by the Spanish government that the Rock's sovereignty should revert to Spain, and shows that the Treaty of Utrecht has some meaning still. The Spanish government has as a reprisal stopped the Algeciras ferry and deprived some 4,000 Spanish workmen of their daily earnings on the Rock. It would be best if General Franco took a new look at the situation and removed restrictions rather than intensifying them. That would be a big gesture, and the least futile of all the moves now open to him.

The sidewalk along Ellis beside Long's has been completed, the curb painted and the bus sign erected but... The bus stop area curb has not been painted and is a trap for all vehicles. The bus stop sign is near Bernard but the unmarked no-parking-except for buses curb reached back to the lane. Other no parking areas are marked by yellow curbs; not so this one. It is unmarked excepting for the distant signs at the north end, and so is an invitation for all drivers looking for a parking spot. Why not paint this and other bus parking places in the city red? That is, if it is desirable to differentiate between simple no parking and bus parking only. Red is used in some cities for this purpose. If not red, why not paint the normal yellow so that parking-seeking drivers may be warned rather than led like innocent lambs into the red ticket trap.

Watch how you stake walkers in the walk-for-charity events. One father, "so as to not spoil the child", offered his youngest two cents for the first mile, 4 cents for the second and so on doubling the amount for each successive mile. On this basis what happens if the child completes the 32-mile course? Dad would owe the youngster nearly $86,000,000,001!

The polls show Prime Minister Trudeau's personal popularity rising even though the public is "disappointed" in him as prime minister. And Opposition leader Stanfield's personal popularity is falling. This is astonishing news because Mr. Stanfield has displayed statesmanlike qualities of the highest order since entering the Commons. In the criminal code debate, Mr. Stanfield voted with the government because he, like many other enlightened citizens, believed that oppressive laws are not only out of date but criminal. And in the official languages bill debate, the Conservative leader did not play politics either—he is in favor of two official languages because he thinks the present system might eventually ruin the country. Right or wrong, Mr. Stanfield has shown immense courage and extraordinary statesmanship. He has put principle ahead of his party. He risks losing his already precarious hold over that party because he refuses to play politics on moral or national unity questions. He should be gaining in popularity and respect instead of losing it.

From where we sit it is a little difficult to understand the reasoning of city council in reducing the grant to the chamber of commerce while leaving other perhaps less-deserving grants untouched. The chamber, next to city council, is the most important organization in the city. It relieves city council of much work and the grant was a compensation for this. The chamber is a public body working for the city and its sphere of interest embraces all city matters, including industrial and tourist promotion. It is also the city's voice in many provincial affairs affecting this area. Of all the grants-in-aid the city gives, the chamber is the most worthy as its work is just about as important as that of council itself.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

ANOTHER UNSUNG CANADIAN HEROINE, MRS. LUNDY, JUST FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGE, STAYED IN THE MIDST OF THE FURIOUS BATTLE OF LUNDY'S LANE DURING THE WAR OF 1812, AND TENDED WOUNDED SOLDIERS IN HER HOME. THE GALLANT YOUNG WOMAN'S CONTRIBUTION WAS CHRONICLED SO IMPORTANT THAT THE BRITISH COMMANDING OFFICER PRESENTED HER WITH HIS SWORD

But Those Guys Kiddled Not And Marchand Won Kamloops

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — "You guys have got to be kidding."

Len Marchand had just been asked by the Kamloops-Cariboo Liberal Association to run against Dave Fulton, the Tory giant, the former minister of justice, a Kamloops-born heir to a political dynasty that included two British Columbia premiers and a member of Parliament. He had won six federal election victories and in 23 years in politics had held three cabinet posts.

Len Marchand was an Indian, from the Okanagan, a "small Indian" who never before had run for office.

"Finally they talked me into it," he said recently in recalling the hectic 1968 federal election campaign. "I thought it would be no shame at all to lose to a man like Dave Fulton."

He then was a special assistant to Arthur Laing, former minister of Indian affairs. Mr. Marchand, from Vernon, B.C., accepted the Liberal nomination May 11, 1968, at a meeting in Kamloops "after stewing over it for a couple more days."

BORN IN POVERTY

"It wasn't until the last two weeks that I thought I might be able to beat him," said Mr. Marchand, 35.

Mr. Marchand's hopes for "a reasonably good showing" against Mr. Fulton, mushroomed into a landslide triumph when the polls closed the night of June 25. He was one of the first MPs declared elected in the province.

The election victory was the pinnacle, to that point, of a career that emerged from the poverty of an Indian reserve.

Born in 1933, Mr. Marchand recalled that his family of 10 was "very poor, but my parents were very proud people."

Mr. Marchand got his primary education at schools on the reserve and in Kamloops, experiencing his first real involvement with white society when he attended high school in Vernon.

"I didn't even know there was such a thing as university until I reached Grade 10—I never heard about it in Indian schools."

Mr. Marchand graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1959 with a bachelor of science degree and five years later got his master's in forestry from the University of Idaho.

WOULD AID INDIANS

He was married in 1960 and has two children, a seven-year-old daughter and four-year-old son.

An authority on range management and plant ecology, he has had a number of papers and articles published by scientific journals.

During the early 1960s Mr. Marchand became increasingly involved in Indian affairs and with the North American Indian Brotherhood, which drew him to the attention of the Indian affairs branch as well as several leading B.C. Liberals.

In 1965 Mr. Marchand became a special adviser on Indian affairs to then immigration minister J. R. Nicholson, whose department had jurisdiction over the Indian affairs branch.

He later became special assistant to Mr. Laing when the branch became a separate federal government department.

Reviewing his first year in Parliament, Mr. Marchand said he has concentrated most of his efforts on problems pertaining to the country's 237,000 Indians and 70,000 Metis.

Mr. Marchand aligns himself with the moderates on matters of Indian affairs. He disagrees with the concept of "Red Power" and says the RCMP should watch the movement closely to keep out "Communist or other subversive elements."

MUST BE 'GIVE'

He recommends gradual abolition of the Indian Act and couples this with a plea to provincial governments to accept their responsibilities toward the native population.

"The only point at which Indians are properly concerned about federal government, apart from the general concern that their land is a special federal trust and their treaties are a special federal commitment."

Mr. Marchand added that Indians must in turn be prepared to surrender some rights guaranteed by treaty that have not been extended to other Canadians.

He said Indians should continue to live only on those reserves that are economically viable if they want to break the circle of welfare and poverty.

"There are about 70,000 Indians in the northern forest areas who cannot possibly feed and clothe their families from the resources around them. They are the ones who will have to move if they are to achieve their aspirations."

Only Clippings Give Secrecy

TORONTO (CP) — Clipping words from newspapers and pasting them on a piece of paper is the only sure way to "write" a letter that can't be traced, a document specialist from New York said Monday.

Russell D. Osborn told the international meeting of forensic scientists that it is almost impossible for a person to hide his identity by disguising handwriting, printing or even typing.

Mr. Osborn, 35, is the grandson of Albert S. Osborn, the pioneer handwriting expert who testified in the 1935 Lindbergh kidnapping trial.

Mr. Osborn told the conference that it is easy enough to disguise obvious characteristics of handwriting or printing, but to copy the style of a particular person's handwriting is so well known, why haven't there been some signs erected before now to warn non-swimmers not to wade in that area?

Mankind Quaffs From The Seas

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Mankind's age-old attempt to extract drinking water from the oceans of the world is finally succeeding, says a United Nations report.

Desalinated water available for drinking has reached the figure of 133,000,000 gallons a day, an increase of 34 per cent over the figure two years ago, said the report. Another 70,000,000 gallons are available for daily use as fresh water but not potable.

Some 25 desalination plants were completed in 1967 and 1968 — 20 in developing countries — and another 14 are currently under construction.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Satisfaction Chit Would Help A Bit

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

A recent column about nurses has brought in complaints from nurses. The column had stated that demands by nurses and other people providing services for wage increases cause inflation. This was not a criticism, it was a statement of fact. Some wage demands should be fought, some not; for instance, I do agree that nurses should receive as much as a plumber though I might suggest that part of their wages be given as incentive pay, the amount to be determined by satisfaction chits patients hand to nurses.

In fact, the same principle might profitably be applied to plumbers. There would be a set price for a plumbing job but it would not be paid all to the plumber; some would go to a central plumber's kitty from which those plumbers with the most "satisfaction chits" would get the most money. This might encourage some more care for the customer and some more promptitude. This, in fact, is a principle which applies to people like authors who eat well if they please the reading public and eat badly if they do not.

None of which, of course, would cure inflation but it might make it a little less unpleasant to pay what it costs having some plumbing done.

Leaving aside the all-important fact that we might not be able to fight inflation in this country if the U.S. does not effectively fight inflation south of the border, we should remember that we do not in all cases suffer from classical inflation in which too much money chases too few goods. This may be the case in housing but is not, currently, the case in beef prices which have gone up even though the supply of beef is more than adequate, or in motor cars, where the supply is more than adequate—practically every car owner could keep his car one year longer and that would bring down demand very sharply.

It would also cause unemployment and a business recession which is a terrible admission to make: we have an economy substantially based on conspicuous consumption, on built-in obsolescence. Manufacturers do not have to make cars that will collapse at the end of one year; they can use television to convince some aging male that a supersnappy inverted camshaft, quadruple-injection wingless airplane capable of doing three times the speed he needs will put tone back into certain vessels whose growing flabbiness worries him.

The fact is that business deliberately creates excess demand which makes everyone want more things and thereby ask for higher wages, and then everyone—the businessmen who create the excess demand included—moans about inflation. It's a game we all play (including nurses) at the expense of pensioners. Let's make the game less painful for those no longer able to play.

CANADA'S STORY

Selkirk Got Land For 10 Shillings

By BOB BOWMAN

The Hudson's Bay Company made a good deal when it leased Vancouver Island for seven shillings a year, as described in a recent story. However, the company also enabled Lord Selkirk to make a spectacular deal on June 12, 1811, when it granted him 116,000 square miles of land for 10 shillings a year. The area included half of Manitoba, and part of Minnesota and North Dakota. It was five times the size of Scotland, Selkirk's native land.

Selkirk was in a strong position to get the huge territory for his Red River settlement. He and two close relatives bought a controlling interest in the Hudson's Bay Company for $12,000 in order to make the deal. He needed this voting strength because Alexander Mackenzie, the first man to cross the continent by land, was strongly opposed to the grant to Selkirk, and also bought shares in the company. Ironically it was Mackenzie's feat in crossing the continent that inspired Selkirk to build his settlement in the Red River area.

In return for the grant Selkirk agreed to supply the Hudson's Bay Company with 200 servants a year and develop an agricultural colony. His first settlers were displaced Scottish farm workers, and they sailed late in 1811. They spent the winter at York Factory and arrived at the site of present-day Winnipeg in August 1812.

Selkirk had made previous efforts to establish settlements in Canada. The first was in Prince Edward Island in 1803 and he brought more settlers to Baldoon, Lake St. Clair in 1804. They were not successful.

OTHER EVENTS ON JUNE 12: 1632—King Charles I returned Port Royal and Quebec to France.

1690—Henry Kelsey left York Factory to explore west.

1714—Placentia, Newfoundland, surrendered to Col. Moody.

1846—Quebec theatre fire took 46 lives.

1848—Two expeditions left Britain to search for Sir John Franklin's expedition, lost in the Arctic.

1912—First Congress of French Language was held at Quebec.

1927—Imperial Privy Council dismissed Roman Catholic appeals for separate schools in Ontario.

1958—Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain spoke to joint session of Parliament in Ottawa.

1961—Canada and U.S. completed new defence agreements.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NEEDLESS TRAGEDY
Sir: Monday evening, the inadequacy of safety measures on our beaches was brought vividly home to me as I tried to assist in the saving of a drowning man at the Hot Sands Beach. Now that a life has been lost, we can ask ourselves and our city council, why there were neither lifeguards nor lifeboats. Do the members of city council believe that no one uses our beaches until the end of June? They should have visited the beach any day for the past three weeks and seen the crowds of bathers in the lake.

When I discussed this tragedy with a former Hot Sands Beach lifeguard, he was able to guess exactly where the drowning had occurred. The lifeguards pulled nine bathers out of that spot in one summer. If that spot is so well known, why haven't there been some signs erected before now to warn non-swimmers not to wade in that area?

We are to blame for this loss of life. Our elected representatives are spending our tax money in the way that we permit them. If we tolerate this type of economizing, then we are at fault and must be corrected.

Yours sincerely,
G. M. JONES

REZONING OPPOSED
Sir: Could I please express a few comments with regards to the request for rezoning of the Princess Street area, behind Shops Capri as described in the June 3 issue of your paper.

One hundred and twenty-one people, all home-owners, signed a petition asking that the rezoning be denied. When we attended the council meeting, we were told by the developer of the shopping centre, he had had a restrictive covenant placed on this area, preventing anyone from building anything other than a one or two dwelling homes, to protect his interests.

We were also told that his enterprises paid one per cent of the city taxes.

This left us wondering who is supposed to protect the interests of the people of Kelowna who pay the other 99 per cent. We did not realize we had bought in this area on a temporary basis, "just to keep the weeds down" until the developer gathered more working capital. It leads us to wonder in which direction the proposed expansion will move next.

We of the district watched, and were told we could do nothing, while relatively new homes, shrubs, hedges, trees and sidewalks were ripped out on Princess Street. This residential area was left for months and months in a condition resembling a garbage dump while our neighbors, still living in the middle of the dump area, were encouraged to sell their property.

If we are apprehensive we have first cause to be. It leads us to ask ourselves the questions, "Is this progress, and who but the developer will benefit by the purchased expansion?"

If allowed to proceed with the expansion of the shopping centre, the traffic situation in this residential area will become intolerable and will add greatly to the traffic problems the city of Kelowna is overburdened with now.

The area behind the shopping centre on Princess, Belaire, Briarwood and Devonshire streets has already been developed by individual home owners. Now all we want is to be left alone to improve our own property, pay our taxes and live in peace as is the right of every Canadian, even those living in Kelowna.

Yours sincerely,
"One of a 121"

MRS. R. J. KOEHLER,
1277 Briarwood Ave.,
Kelowna

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Lawyer Ernest Wentzel, who has been arrested twice for criticizing the South African government, bought the door to the jail cell where he spent 21 days in 1964. He got the door from contractors demolishing the police headquarters. He said it was to install it in his home.

Ottawa Now Running Scared As Immigrant Flow Dries Up

OTTAWA (CP) — An 18-month nosedive in applications for immigration to Canada has scared the government into reversal of last year's administrative restrictions.

A year ago immigration officers were told to show no leniency to border-line applicants and to discourage those who got a pass mark of 50 points but whose occupations weren't in demand.

Immigration fell to 183,974 in 1968, a drop of 38,902, and projections in the first months of this year indicated a 25-per-cent drop for 1969.

Meanwhile, there has been pressure from Manitoba and Ontario, as well as some industries, to open the gates.

Informed sources say a new directive went to immigration officers late in May telling them to open the tap.

ARRANGE INTERVIEWS

They are to be more lenient in granting loans for transportation, though the candidate must still put up a down payment of at least $50.

Personal interviews are to be arranged to assess candidates who earlier this year would have received the "don't call us" routine.

And borderline applicants who miss by only a few points the 50 mark are to be given a second look at least.

One problem is that news of last year's freeze approach scared off better-qualified applicants and left the hard-core unemployed or the disgruntled in heavy numbers among the applicants now getting favored treatment.

First-quarter 1969 figures show a 14-per-cent drop in comparison with the same period in 1968.

Department figures say 30,788 immigrants came in during the first three months compared with 35,601 in first-quarter 1968.

The decline in migration from Europe was sharp—18,335 against 24,596. This figure includes British immigration.

Stratford Festival Opens Its Third Play In Sequence

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Festival completed its third opening in as many nights Wednesday with a triumphant production of a difficult play.

Shakespeare's Measure for Measure followed a dull Hamlet and a jubilant version of Ben Jonson's play The Alchemist. But The Alchemist lacked a satisfying resolution.

Measure for Measure had one thanks largely to William Hurt, outstanding in the difficult role of Vincentio, the duke.

Mr. Hurt, especially in the second and third acts, held the play together and gave it much of its direction. His interpretation of the role was far different, far more alive and believable than the fusty, interlocking old man the duke is usually made out to be.

But he couldn't have lifted the play as he did without Leo Ciceri in the role of his deputy Angelo.

It was Mr. Ciceri who, at the beginning of the second act, gave the play its initial thrust and pace. Whipping himself, literally and figuratively, his torment and anguish in his newly-recognized corruption was real. His portrayal remained strong to the end, when he was exposed as the man who sentenced another to death for making a girl pregnant, then offered a pardon in exchange for the favors of the condemned man's sister.

FIRST ACT LAGS

Director David Giles opened the play with a brief cameo illustrating the lust and corruption of the Viennese society which led Vincentio to deputize Angelo in an attempt to restore public morals. From there, the first act lagged, wandering without direction. But this is a criticism that has been common since the play was written.

OBITUARIES

M. L. MOUNT

Funeral services will be held Friday for Montague Leonard Mount, 72, former government fruit inspector and member of the B.C. Fruit Board who died Tuesday.

Born in Westmount, Que., in 1896 Mr. Mount moved to Kelowna in 1922 and farmed in Glenmore for 30 years.

At the outbreak of the First World War he enlisted with the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders and was twice wounded overseas.

Spanish Police Foil Kidnappers

CIUDAD REAL, Spain (Reuters) — Spanish police today rescued a granddaughter of former Dominican dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo and her Spanish fiancé, both kidnapped in Madrid last week.

They found the couple in a house near here, 43 miles from Madrid. The kidnappers, described as two Latin-Americans, escaped.

The victims were rescued unharmed after a police siege at dawn of a house on the outskirts of a small village called Retuerto.

Maruja Trujillo, 20, a student at Madrid University, disappeared June 3 with Francisco Bergaz, 24, a law student and son of a Spanish industrialist.

A blue car in which the two were travelling was found abandoned in Madrid, and their families received anonymous telephone calls demanding a ransom of up to 15,000,000 pesetas ($230,000).

Grassroot Rule Advised In U.K.

Retired Railroader Celebrates Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacLeod of 785 Copeland Place, Kelowna were honored by their family and friends Saturday on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Malcolm and Pheobe were married June 4, 1919 at Durban, and spent most of their life in Manitoba and Saskatchewan where Mr. MacLeod was employed by the Canadian National Railways as station agent. Since retiring in 1954 they have resided in Kelowna. Mr. MacLeod is an active member of the CNR Pensioners Club here.

Their family and friends gathered at the home of their eldest daughter and husband, Ruth and Wes Busler of 880 Charles Crescent, Rutland to enjoy a dinner and social evening. Dale Wentworth entertained with an hour of delightful organ music after dinner.

Other members of the immediate family who travelled to Kelowna for the occasion were daughter Marjorie and husband Arnold Wahl of Seattle; daughter Frances and husband Robert Miller, of Port Alberni; and son Earl and wife Irene of Calgary. Many other family members and old friends also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod have 13 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Many flowers and gifts, which included a complete set of lawn furniture were received, as well

Groom's Father Conducts Double-Ring Ceremony

OYAMA (Special)—White baskets trimmed with apricot colored bows, and filled with multi-colored iris, decorated the Winfield Missionary Church recently for the candle-lit wedding of Cherrie Maureen Turner, Oiyama, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Turner, Oiyama, to Steven Joseph Mikel, Twin Falls, Idaho, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. L. Mikel, Twin Falls, Idaho. The happy couple were united in marriage by the groom's father, Rev. Mikel.

Proceeding the double-ring ceremony Esther Turner, Kelowna an Tom Turner, lit the beautiful array of candelabra on the altar. The three sisters of the groom sang the "Wedding Prayer" and Mrs. J. Hedigaard, another sister of the groom sang "Whither Thou Goest". They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Ingram, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a picture of traditional beauty, in her gown of white satin and lace. The mandarin neckline and bell-shaped lace sleeves, complemented the beauty of the softly draped gown with lace entrain. The silk illusion bouffant chapel veil fell gracefully from a jeweled tiara. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Elsa Severn, Winfield, was gowned in a full-length dress of apricot voile, trimmed with pastel print fashioned in an A-line style, featuring bell sleeves, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaids were Esther Turner, Kelowna, and Gloria Turner, Oiyama, Falls, Idaho, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. L. Mikel, Twin Falls, Idaho. The happy couple were united in marriage by the groom's father, Rev. Mikel.

Proceeding the double-ring ceremony Esther Turner, Kelowna an Tom Turner, lit the beautiful array of candelabra on the altar. The three sisters of the groom sang the "Wedding Prayer" and Mrs. J. Hedigaard, another sister of the groom sang "Whither Thou Goest". They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Ingram, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a picture of traditional beauty, in her gown of white satin and lace. The mandarin neckline and bell-shaped lace sleeves, complemented the beauty of the softly draped gown with lace entrain. The silk illusion bouffant chapel veil fell gracefully from a jeweled tiara. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The ring bearer was Richard Turner, brother of the bride. The best men were Russ Mikel, Kellogg, Idaho; Rev. John Hedigaard, Sundie, and Tom Turner, Oiyama.

CHURCH RECEPTION
The guests were received by the parents of the bride and groom at a reception held in the church basement, where the young people of the church served refreshments to the 150 guests. The bride's mother received guests attired in a two-piece lace ensemble of a soft lilac shade, and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a dress of pastel green crepe, and a corsage of pink roses.

The master-of-ceremonies was Rev. V. Stauffer, Winfield, and George Pretty of Oiyama proposed the toast to the bride. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, and later the bride and groom mingled with their guests while distributing the cake.

For a honeymoon trip to Banff, the bride donned a coat-dress of spring lilac with white accessories.

The couple will reside in Mishawaka, Indiana, U.S.A. Out of town guests were from Calgary, Didsbury, Sundie, Edmonton, Bowden, Alberta; Indiana; Twin Falls and Kellogg, Idaho; Vancouver; Kelowna, and Vernon.

ANN LANDERS

Ignorance Is Not The Same As Lewd

Dear Ann Landers: I was sitting in a busy airport last week, in the nation's capital. Next to me a young mother (she couldn't have been more than 23 years old) was breast feeding her infant. I know the girl was not a foreigner because I heard her speak to her three-year-old in perfect English.

She made no effort to cover herself—just sat there in the middle of the airport, with hundreds of people milling around, completely oblivious to the stares she was getting from men and the dirty looks she was getting from the women.

If you say there's nothing wrong with this sort of thing I'll take your word for it, but to my way of thinking, breast feeding a baby in public is the same as being a topless waitress. — Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B. There's no more similarity between breast feeding a baby in public and being a topless waitress than there is in undressing to take a shower and posing for the center spread of a girls magazine.

That poor woman is ignorant, not lewd. In our culture it is not considered good taste to breast feed a baby in public, but she didn't know better.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband will be coming home from Vietnam in seven weeks. We weren't getting along when he left, in fact we talked seriously about a divorce. When he left we agreed to wait and see what the separation did to our feelings for one another.

During his absence I have been going with a couple of former boyfriends. I decided not to sneak around, so of course a great many people have seen me, including my in-laws.

These past few weeks I've done some soul-searching and have decided I love my husband more than I thought. Dating others has been a good thing because I now realize that my husband is the best of the lot. I've decided I want to make a go of our marriage and I am willing to work my heart out to achieve this goal.

Question (1): Should I tell my husband I dated in his absence? Question (2): Did I do wrong? (2) Probably.

—LEARNED A LOT
Dear Learned: (1) Yes. And don't waste any time. You can be sure some self-appointed vigilante will feel it is his or her sworn duty, as a true friend, to fill your husband in on your activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pettman returned from Vancouver where they saw their daughter, Terry-Ann off on the student chartered flight to England. Terry-Ann will spend the summer in Europe touring with some friends, one of whom has parents residing in Germany. Miss Pettman will also visit her uncle in London.

Local couples among the head table guests at the banquet at Capri Tuesday evening of the B. C. Bowling Proprietors Association were Alderman Alan Moss and Mrs. Moss; William Stevenson, manager of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Stevenson; Henry Trembley, managing editor, Kelowna Daily Courier and Mrs. Trembley, Minister without portfolio, Patricia Jane Jordan, MLA for North Okanagan was the guest speaker for the evening, attended by more than 100 delegates from across the province. Dancing followed. A decision to hold the national convention of the Canadian Bowling Proprietors Association in Kelowna next year, was made as a result of the excellent facilities available here

Legion Ladies Add New Members

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion recently held their general meeting with 26 attending. Mrs. William Atherley was initiated and Mrs. Gordon McKinnon was transferred from Edmonton.

Mrs. Gordon Allan, the president, reported on the Prince George convention and the sick committee reported visits were made to 39 members who were hospitalized.

The Pig and Whistle recently held, was a huge success, thanks to Mrs. Phyllis Jefferies and Mrs. Basil Carnegie who worked so hard on the project.

June 16 will be the last meeting for the summer and will take the form of a pot luck supper at 6:30 p.m. and the warm hospitality shown by all concerned.

The Kelowna Gyro Club is holding a mixed golf and luncheon Friday evening. Starting at 6 p.m. they will play at the Fairview Golf Course and will later enjoy a spaghetti supper together at the Mission Hall. The evening program includes dancing.

The cast of the King and I enjoyed a no-host party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pettman, Truswell Road, Sunday evening. Since a number of the group are leaving Kelowna, it was also a time of good wishes for a 'bon voyage'. Mr. and Mrs. Tony Minchen are returning to Australia, via England and Europe, where they will spend the summer. Val Ellis is also spending the summer in England before returning to British Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Green are going to England where they will teach and Willie Ho is going back to Vancouver to teach. Col. Roy Oliver, took many of the guests on boat rides in the Okanagan.

A pool-side fashion show at Capri Tuesday afternoon sponsored by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce for wives of the delegates to the B.C. Bowling Proprietors Association attracted as many male spectators as females. Delegates left the convention room to watch the lovely models featuring summer fashions from a Bernard Avenue ladies shop. Models taking part were: Judy Smith and Barbara Melnyk, Mrs. Lawrence Salloun, Mrs. Phillip Weddell, Mrs. George Athens, Mrs. Robert D. Knox, Mrs. Kenneth Shepherd and Mrs. Ernest Reichart. Mrs. David Chapman gave her usual sparkling commentary.

PREPARE FOR SHOOT
PELEE ISLAND, Ont. (CP)—The island council has decided to buy 7,500 pheasant chicks this summer for the annual fall shoot. In previous years council has bought grown pheasants. Pelee Island is in Lake Erie, southeast of Windsor.

Lean, lively, loaded and a whole lot of fun

The Datsun 1000 is a slim, trim swinger that knows how to treat you in style. It pampers you with reclining bucket seats, carpets, tinted glass and white walls... all the things that would add up to a small fortune on other import and domestic cars. A few more? Back-up lights, twin horns, rubber bumper overrides and locking fuel tank. It even lights your cigarette. And costs less than $2000.

For muscle, it has a spunky 62 hp overhead valve engine that moves it faster than the law allows and squeezes up to 40 miles from a gallon of gas. Quick acceleration? You've got it, through the smoothest synchromesh 4-on-the-floor in the business.

What's the Datsun 1000 like to drive? From where you sit, you can see forever. In five minutes you'll feel right at home. Your Datsun 1000 turns on a dime. It stops straight and sure. And you can park two Datsun 1000s in the space a big car would take. There's a 2-door and a 4-door. Which is for you? The 4-door costs $100 more, if that will help.

Here's another thing to remember. When you buy a Datsun you can count on more than 160 Datsun dealers coast-to-coast in Canada or over 800 in North America. The service and parts availability is excellent. There's more than $1,000,000 in parts here to back you. Now all that's left is to test drive a Datsun 1000 and find out for yourself what fun-driving is all about!

Lumber Prices
Take Tumble

SEATTLE (AP) - Lumber prices in the Pacific Northwest and for United States purchases from British Columbia have plummeted and apparently will continue to do so, industry spokesmen say.

British Columbia lumbermen say prices have dropped by as much as a third from the record levels reached in March. They forecast mill closures.

At Longview, Wash., President Stan Rose of Exeter Lumber Sales Co. said Wednesday prices have fallen by as much as 50 per cent since mid-March. He said lumber that was selling at up to $140 a thousand board feet now is quoted at $80.

The price is dropping almost daily, he said.

Mrs. Ellen McNamara, sales manager for Rainier Manufacturing Co., a Rainier, Ore., independent, said the market probably will continue to lose ground until fall.

She and Mr. Rose also predicted some mill closures.

Lumber Prices
Take Tumble

SEATTLE (AP) - Lumber prices in the Pacific Northwest and for United States purchases from British Columbia have plummeted and apparently will continue to do so, industry spokesmen say.

British Columbia lumbermen say prices have dropped by as much as a third from the record levels reached in March. They forecast mill closures.

At Longview, Wash., President Stan Rose of Exeter Lumber Sales Co. said Wednesday prices have fallen by as much as 50 per cent since mid-March. He said lumber that was selling at up to $140 a thousand board feet now is quoted at $80.

The price is dropping almost daily, he said.

Mrs. Ellen McNamara, sales manager for Rainier Manufacturing Co., a Rainier, Ore., independent, said the market probably will continue to lose ground until fall.

She and Mr. Rose also predicted some mill closures.

Trade Deficit

LONDON (Reuters) - Record exports cut the British overseas trade deficit to about £20,000,000 ($52,000,000) in May, the second lowest deficit this year, the government announced today.

Victoria's Response Poor, Says UBC Finance Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — A comprehensive statement of the financial situation at the University of British Columbia has been termed "disappointing" by the B.C. government's response to university pleas to more than triple annual capital grants for badly-needed construction.

The report, compiled from administration files and statistics by the Alumni Association, said UBC asked Victoria to commit itself to a new five-year program of capital grants, following expiry of the old one on March 31.

It said UBC asked for $17,000,000 a year, compared with the $5,000,000 it got in 1968-69 under the old plan, but got only $6,000,000 for the 1969-70 academic year, plus a $70,000 contribution to UBC's hospital.

"UBC is caught in a vise between two strong and conflicting pressures. One is the sharply increasing demand for a university education; the other is the demand for economy imposed by government and sanctioned by public opinion."

"Years of rapid growth and of underfinancing have led to shortages of space, books, facilities and amenities. These deficiencies produce a rising background level of discontent among students, which can be exploited politically by the small minority of radicals and revolutionaries."

The report also said that enrollment is rising at about 10 per cent a year. It is expected to hit 21,470 by December 1, and "unless UBC drastically changes its open-door admission policy" enrollment will total more than 30,000 by 1973.

"The university will become more impersonal, students more alienated, the quality of education will decline and campus life will become a dreary existence indeed."

Paris Air Show Boon To Canada

PARIS (CP) — Results for Canada at this year's Paris Air show were so good that the country's participation in the next such spectacle likely will be larger than 1969's record effort, officials of the Canadian pavilion said Monday.

About 30 companies exhibited at the pavilion during the 10-day display of aero-space innovations which ended Sunday.

"There's bound to be escalation at the next show," said one Canadian representative when asked about possible size of Canada's part in that event.

Canadian officials said a major consideration in their country's participation was the opportunity given companies to gather together their overseas sales agents and meet with representatives of foreign firms.

Total investment by the provincial government in construction at UBC since its inception in 1915 was $52,641,000, the report said, with another $53,690,000 coming from students, alumni, the public and federal government agencies.

The report also pointed to the declining percentage that fees represent in UBC's budget. Fees have remained static (arts students pay $457) for four years, and fees have declined to 17 per cent of the budget.

Comparing UBC with other universities in Canada, the report said that per-capita grants to universities in Ontario during 1968-69 were $17.11; in Alberta $26.87, and in B.C., $5.98.

For the coming year, grants increased to $7.27 in B.C., dropped to $19.85 in Alberta and $13.65 in Ontario.

Study space is the worst shortage at UBC, the report said, with only one study seat for every seven students, compared with the generally accepted standard of one seat for three students.

"The result is that every day hundreds of students are forced to study wherever they can find a place to sit—in the halls, on the stairs, in cafeterias and in cars on parking lots."

"UBC is more crowded than other leading universities. For every full-time student, UBC has 115 square feet of useable space, the University of Alberta has 148 and the University of Toronto 156."

The faculty-to-student ratio at UBC was 1:15 during 1968-69, compared with 1:10.8—lowest in Canada—at Dalhousie in Halifax and 1:11.7 at Toronto and the University of Western Ontario.

Asking "Do professors earn their pay?" the report said UBC faculty, averaging $13,700 a year, rank about sixth in terms of salaries paid at 11 major Canadian universities.

Answering widespread impressions that university professors have a soft job, "good salary, plenty of money for research, a light teaching load and teaching assistants to do most of the dull work," the report said a recent UBC survey showed many faculty worked up to 60-70 hours a week on university, academic and professional matters.

It also quoted the Economic Council of Canada's figures that society can expect a 15 to 17 per cent annual dividend from subsidies to universities.

To help alleviate the financial crisis, the report proposed a weighted system of operating grants, with a value of one assigned to arts undergraduates, three to forestry and agriculture students, ranging up to six for graduates working on a doctorate.

"It would tend to eliminate the disparities which in 1968-69 gave Simon Fraser University $2,188 for each student, University of Victoria $1,551 and UBC only $1,411."

Opening lead—jack of hearts.
Let's say you're declarer at three notrump and West leads the jack of hearts. East signalling with the eight. You win with the king, but what do you do next?
Obviously, your best suit is clubs, and you might therefore begin by leading the ace and another club. But if you did this, you would surely go down. East would win and return a heart to set up his suit. You would now have eight ready tricks—four clubs and two sets of A-Ks—but whenever you got around to leading a diamond to try to score a ninth trick, the defence would grab the ace and cash their hearts to put you down one.

The plain and unadorned fact is that if you begin by leading a club you are heading for sure defeat. Your cause is hopeless if you do this. What you should do is lead a low diamond at trick two. This is the only play that gives you a chance for the contract.
Note what happens when you do this. If West goes up with the ace, you have nine ready tricks consisting of two spades, two hearts, four diamonds and a club. If he does not go up with the ace, you win with the king, lead a club, and finesse when East follows low (this is a safety play to guard against East's having the K-Q-8).
West wins with the queen and returns a heart, but you now have nine ready tricks consisting of two spades, two hearts, one diamond and four clubs.
The hand demonstrates somewhat pointedly that you do not necessarily start the play by attacking your longest, or your strongest, or your most promising suit, but rather than one that offers the best chance for the contract. Each hand is a law unto itself.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
Under present planetary influences, the earlier part of the day should find most persons in sympathetic and congenial mood, and it would be a good period in which to seek advice and favors, if needed, also to accomplish a great deal through quiet efforts. Aggressive action will get you nowhere.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your chart indicates that you should take advantage of every available opportunity to make advances in occupational interests now, since, while results may not be immediate, your efforts presently stimulate good ideas and the ingenuity for putting them into effect. This will be especially important if you have been asked or have been asked to accept a new position or to take on a new project. Where romance and social relationships are concerned, you can look forward happily to the most of the year with accent on especially stimulating experiences along both lines during planning, on your own, to give August, November, next April present efforts some new direction. Most propitious birthday—first three weeks of September, late November, early January and April.
A child born on this day will be extremely ambitious and un-imaginative. He would Nov. 15 in late December, Feb. 15 in late March, and March 15 in late April.

Willows Use Familiar Tactics To Squeak Past Old Stylers

It seems to be the week of the big inning in the Kelowna and District Senior B Softball League.

Two nights ago, the Rutland Rovers scored seven runs in the first inning en route to a 10-0 victory over Vernon. Then Tuesday night, the Kelowna Old Stylers scored six runs in one inning as they dumped Vernon 11-7.

The Willows got into the act Wednesday, using a four-run fourth inning to defeat the Stylers 4-2 in a game played at King's Stadium. And to show how much the four-run inning was needed, the Willows managed to gather only one hit in the five other innings they went to bat.

Dan Glanville and Larry Yeast, provided all the pitching support, needed, limiting the Stylers to single runs in the second and fourth innings. The two gave up just five hits and

No Big Deals Or Surprises In NHL's Annual Draft

MONTREAL (CP) — Sixteen players were drafted at a total cost of $480,000 at the National Hockey League's annual intra-league draft Wednesday.

However, despite the large sum involved at $30,000 a head, there were really no big deals or surprises.

Montreal Canadiens emerged virtually unscathed from the operation, even though they lost three fringe players.

Chicago Black Hawks, last-place finishers in the Eastern Division last season, also lost three players.

The affluent Montrealers lost goaltender Tony Esposito, brother of Boston Bruins' Phil, to Chicago, defenceman Larry Hillman to Philadelphia Flyers and forward Richard Sentles to Minnesota.

Sentles was the initial pick in the draft and by losing him to the North Stars, Canadiens were able to fill with veteran left winger Dick Duff, and later young Peter Mahovich, both left unprotected going into the draft. Montreal also purchased goalie Jack Norris from Chicago, who was dropped in favor of Esposito.

REJOINS BROTHER

Hillman's move to Philadelphia brought him back together with brother Wayne, recently traded to the Flyers from Minnesota.

Chicago lost defenceman Matt Ravlich to Detroit Red Wings, and forwards Andre Boudrias and Wayne Maki to St. Louis Blues.

On the other hand, the Hawks drafted Esposito from Montreal Lou Angotti from St. Louis and Howe Menard from Los Angeles Kings.

The Hawks managed to slide veteran right winger Eric Nesterenko on to their protected list after the loss of Ravlich.

Four clubs did not draft at all. They were Los Angeles, Oakland Seals—both of the West Division—New York Rangers and Boston Bruins.

However, the Rangers lost defenceman Bob Blackburn to Pittsburgh but in turn bought forward Forbes Kennedy from the Penguins.

The Bruins gave up utility forward Glen Sather to Pittsburgh and forward Grant Erickson to Minnesota. Boston bought Bill Speer from Pittsburgh and managed to retain the services of young defenceman Barry Wilkins, originally left unprotected. Detroit Red Wings lost vel-

A Busy Time For Kelowna

Saturday will mark the beginning of a busy period in the Kelowna sports scene.

In Vancouver, 13 athletes from Kelowna Secondary School and four from Dr. Knox will compete in the B.C. Track and Field Championships. Indications are the Kelowna contingent is the strongest and most well-balanced to represent this city in many years.

Boys and girls from Alberta, Washington State and British Columbia will be competing in the first Provincial Trampoline Championships this Saturday at the Kelowna Memorial Arena.

The compulsory routines will be run off commencing at 10 a.m. and the optional routines begin at 7 p.m.

Four Goliath Trampolines will be used for the competition including a space ball unit. An exhibition of space ball will conclude the trampoline tournament. Mike Brow, formerly of Kelowna and now attending Mount Royal College in Calgary, last year competed and won the space ball championship while on tour with the Nissen Trampoline Company. Terry Henderson of Kamloops, who took over after Mike Brow left, will be at the tournament and will challenge Mike to a game of space ball in the provincial space ball championship.

There will be a tennis clinic Saturday for all those interested in learning the basic fundamentals of tennis. Top players from the Kelowna Tennis Club will be out to assist in this instruction.

Tennis players of all ages who are interested in this type of clinic should be out at the City Park public tennis courts at 10 a.m.

Depending on the attendance, the players will be divided into age groups. There will be a group for adults who wish to improve their tennis ability and another group for younger players just learning the game.

Registration will commence Monday at the Aquatic for the Kelowna Parks and Recreation Swimming Classes. Registration is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be held daily until June 21.

Registration will be for the following four sessions:

- Session 1—June 30-July 11
- Session 2—July 14-July 25
- Session 3—July 28-Aug. 8
- Session 4—Aug. 11-Aug. 22

The four sessions are for beginners and beginners Red Cross.

Red Cross Water Safety will hold registration at the same time with the following steps:

- Junior Red Cross, Intermediate Red Cross, Senior Red Cross, Elementary Royal Lifesaving, Intermediate Royal Lifesaving and Bronze Medallion.

The Red Cross and Royal Lifesaving classes will be held three times a week during July and August.

Don Schmidt was the losing pitcher. The veteran right-hander was making his third appearance on the mound in three days and ran into trouble only during the decisive fourth inning. He also allowed five hits while sending four Willows down via the strikeout route.

Glanville started for the Willows and was replaced by Yeast in the third inning.

Wayne North opened the fourth frame with a double. Ron Pyle followed with a walk. Dale Armeneau then stepped into the box and ripped a second double.

Schmidt retired the next two men but doubled by Grant Hunchuk and Yeast brought in three more runs. Roy Hawkins scored both of the Stylers runs with a pair of singles by Wilf Emdee being the big factor in each inning.

SPORT SCENE

More than 200 elementary students will take part in an invitational track meet Friday at the City Park Oval. Schools competing are Matheson, Bankhead, Martin, Central, Dorothea Walker and Peachland. The meet gets under way at 4 p.m. and goes until dusk.

The Kelowna Cubs of the Okanagan High School Football League have a new assistant coach. He is Bob Baumbach, a graduate of the University of Alberta in Edmonton and a former member of the U of A Golden Bears who won the Canadian Collegiate championship in 1967. Mr. Baumbach is an oil company representative and will spend most of his time working with the Cubs' defensive line.

The entire coaching staff of the Kelowna Cubs is excited about the team's chances in the coming season. Spring practices have already started and more than 50 hopefuls have been turning out. The Cubs lost only four players through graduation last season.

Dennis Zahara of Dr. Knox Secondary School is one of the most promising athletes from this area to compete in the B.C. Track and Field Championships at Vancouver this weekend. He recorded a jump of 11 feet, six and one-half inches in the pole vault competition at the Okanagan track meet.

Sharp Amateur Could Win Pro Golfing's U.S. Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Can an amateur golfer win the U.S. Open?

"You better believe it," Bruce Fleisher of Hialeah, Fla., says. Fleisher is one of 11 amateurs trying to break the stranglehold of the professionals in the 99th U.S. open golf championship starting today.

"Why shouldn't an amateur win?" Fleisher, 20, asked.

"They use the same clubs. They play the same courses. Sure, the odds are against it because the pros are more tournament-toughened, but there are a lot of good amateurs. One of them will win someday. . . ."

The last amateur to win the Open was Johnny Goodman in 1933, shortly after the dynasty

Nixon Watches Senators Lose Game To Athletics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon took himself off to the Washington Senators game against Oakland Athletics Wednesday night and applauded their comeback from a 4-0 early deficit to an extra-inning stand-off.

But Reggie Jackson, the Athletics young slugger star, opened the 13th inning with his second homer of the night and the visitors added another run for a 7-5 victory.

"You've got to feel good hitting for the president," said Jackson, who slammed his first homer before Nixon arrived at the park. "He's the biggest man in the world."

"Now, at least he knows my name. He didn't know it before the game, probably."

The Senators' setback gave Nixon an 0-2 season record. He threw out the first ball in the traditional presidential opener on April 7, then watched Ted Williams' club bow to New York Yankees 8-4.

Meanwhile, Boston rookie Joe Lahoud made a strong impression on Minnesota Twins, slarmin' three home runs in a 13-5 Red Sox romp.

Elsewhere in the American League, California Angels downed Baltimore Orioles 7-3 in 14 innings, New York Yankees nipped Kansas City Royals 5-4 in 11, Detroit Tigers squeezed past Seattle Pilots 4-3 in 10 and Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland Indians 4-3.

When Nixon arrived, the Athletics led 3-0 on Jackson's first-inning homer and a bases-loaded throwing error by second baseman Bernie Allen in the second. They moved four runs up in the fourth when Bert Campaneris scored on a wild pitch by Barry Moore.

Washington, however, rallied for two runs in the fifth and Allen smacked a seventh-inning homer before driving in the tying run with a single in the ninth. When Ken McMullen crossed the plate, Nixon leaped to his feet and applauded, then settled back for the overtime struggle.

RAPS DOUBLES

Lahoud, batting .083 with no extra base hits and one RBI going into the game at Minnesota, poked a two-run homer down the right field line in the second inning and curled bases-empty shots just inside the foul pole in the fifth and eighth.

Dick Schofield, with three doubles, and George Scott and Reggie Smith, with three singles apiece, teamed with Lahoud to pace the Red Sox' 18-hit assault on loser Dave Boswell and six successors.

Tom Satriano's two-run pinch single in the 14th broke a 5-5 knot at Baltimore as the Angels beat the Orioles and a local curfew, which prohibits an inning from being started after 11:59 p.m.

Bobby Cox' run-scoring pinch double with two out in the 11th lifted the Yankees past Kansas City. Lou Piniella drilled a two-run, inside-the-park homer and singled home another run for the Royals, giving him seven RBI in his last two starts.

The Tigers spotted Seattle a 2-2 lead on John Kennedy's single in the top of the 10th, then flattened the Pilots in the bottom half on singles by Al Kaline, Norm Cash and Jim Northrup and Jim Price's double off the left field wall.

The White Sox struck for three unearned runs in the seventh, handed Luis Tiant his eighth loss of the season and won for the fourth time in as many Milwaukee home games.

Emeralds Still Shine

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Righthander Barry Lersch pitched a five-hit shutout as the streaking Eugene Emeralds completed a sweep of a Pacific Coast League doubleheader in Vancouver Wednesday by defeating Vancouver Mounties 5-0.

The Emeralds won the opener 8-4 and for the luckless Mounties it was an all-time club record—10 losses in a row.

Larry Bowa, who had keyed the Eugene win in the first game with four singles in as many trips and two stolen bases again sparked the visitors to victory.

The rest of the Dodgers didn't do any better against the Phillies. Billy Champion, who allowed just five hits in his second major league start, John Callison doubled home a pair of Philadelphia runs in the first inning.

The majors longest-winning streak of the season came to an end when Gaylord Perry halted the Mets on four hits. Ron Hunt, Willie Mays and Willie McCovey provided the key hits for the Giants with McCovey getting two hits after the Mets walked him three straight times.

Atlanta beat the Cubs for the first time in five tries this season as Phil Niekro pitched a two-hitter for his 10th victory against four defeats. The Braves exploded for four runs in the first inning, two on Orlando Cepeda's bases-loaded double.

JESUS ALOU
...fractured jaw

Alou Out Six Weeks

HOUSTON (AP) — Jesus Alou, who received a fracture to the left side of his jaw Tuesday night in a collision with Houston Astro shortstop Hector Torres, will be out of action for four to six weeks.

"The jaw will not have to be wired, but specialists are placing braces on his teeth," an Astro spokesman said. "He will be on a liquid diet for two weeks."

Alou, an outfielder, was placed on the Astro disabled list. Torres will be out of action about a week.

Alou also received a slight concussion and remained in an intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital.

Both Alou and Torres were rushed to the hospital after they collided while chasing Al Oliver's pop fly in the third inning of an Astrodome game in which Houston defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4.

Both players were knocked unconscious and Oliver rounded the bases for an inside-the-park home run that gave the Pirates an early 4-0 lead.

Annual Meeting Ends For NHL

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League's annual meetings end today with two of the hottest topics of discussion—expansion and owner-player relations—still largely unresolved.

To close the four-day proceedings, most of today's activity will centre around three drafts—the internal, the amateur and the reserve—with the amateur draft holding the most significance as close to 3,600 young players are made available to the 12 NHL clubs for a $3,000 price tag each.

However, conservative estimates by several team general managers figure the amateur proceedings will not net more than 25 players to the pros.

Wednesday night, Clarence Campbell, NHL president, gave new hope to cities seeking franchises in the next league expansion.

He said a report by the expansion committee was delivered and on the strength of it a full-scale expansion meeting has been set for New York for June 25.

At that time the league governors will decide whether to enlarge the league by two teams for the 1970-71 season. Applications are already on hand from Vancouver and Baltimore, and complete presentations are expected from Buffalo and Cleveland—with the latter two cities already through the initial inquiry stage.

If the governors decide to make a move to expand, applications will be called for immediately, processed quickly, and a final decision available by June 30.

Retire, Unretire And Traded; An Odd Year For Ball Players

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is the season that will go down in baseball history as the year in which players were traded, retired, then unretired and players retired, unretired and were traded.

Don Clendenon and Ken Harrelson are in the first category. Maury Wills in the second.

Wills, who announced his retirement last week but remained retired for just 48 hours, was back in his old leadoff spot with Los Angeles Wednesday night following the Dodgers' trade with Montreal Expos.

The presence of the 36-year-old shortstop didn't help, however, as Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Dodgers 3-0.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco Giants stopped New York Mets' 11-game winning streak, downing the Mets 7-2. Atlanta Braves whipped Chicago Cubs 5-1. St. Louis Cardinals ripped Cincinnati Reds 10-5. Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged Houston Astros 13-8 and San Diego Padres edged Montreal Expos 6-5 in 10 innings.

The Dodgers got Wills back after almost 2½ years absence by sending Montreal Ron Fairly and Paul Popovich. The Dodgers also obtained Manny Mota from the Expos.

RECALLED DODGER YEARS

"When I heard about the trade, I immediately began to think of all the wonderful things that happened to me as a Dodger," said Wills, who played on

One director was named from every city in the league: Bill Baker of Kelowna, George Stoll of Penticton, Dave McKay of Vernon, Ernie Davies of Kamloops, Dick Ping of New Westminster, Bill Ferguson of Victoria and Gill Lundhn of Vancouver.

New Officers Installed At Rutland Lions Feast

RUTLAND — The Rutland Lions Club held its installation banquet and dance in the Centennial Hall. Prior to the dance, many of the guests and the executive members were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. (Ab) North, Rutland Road. President Roy Tanemura welcomed everyone at the dinner, and introduced the following head table guests: Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Follett, the former representing the Rutland Kinsmen Club; Dr. D. A. Clarke, Kelowna Rotary, and Mrs. Clark; A. Corrado, Kelowna Kinsmen, and Mrs. Corrado; Murray Joyce, Kelowna Gyro, and Mrs. Joyce; D. C. Johnston, Kelowna Lions, and Mrs. Johnston; J. A. North, incoming president, Rutland Lions, and Mrs. North; Robert Neil, Vernon Lions Club, and Mrs. Neil; Jack Scott, representing the Westbank Lions, and Mrs. Scott; Mrs. Gordon Smith, Kelowna, wife of zone chairman Gordon Smith; Don Braund, secretary, and Mrs. Braund; Doug Sutherland, Kelowna Lions, district governor, and Mrs. Sutherland; Mrs. Roy Tanemura.

President Roy in his retiring speech, paid high tribute to all those members and friends who had worked so hard for the club. Today, he stated, the Rutland Lions Club is one of the largest in District D.I., having close to 50 members. Installing officer, zone chairman Gordon Smith, was introduced by past president William Newman. The following officers were installed for the 1969-70 executive: President: J. A. (Ab) North; first vice-president, W. P. (Wally) Barnes; second vice-president, David Zimmer; third vice-president, John Ivans; secretary, Donald Braund; treasurer, Orville Charlton; tall twister, Kelly Slater; Lion tamer, Peter Bohn; immediate past president, Roy Tanemura; directors, Carl Smith, Howard Johnson, Kaz Hayashi, Rev. H. R. Hall.

Speaker for the evening was past district governor Robert Neil of the Vernon Lions Club. He was introduced by program chairman Lorne Snook. Lion Bob's inspiring talk stressed the need to "keep improving our clubs with new ideas."

Presentation of awards followed, these being made by retiring president Roy Tanemura, assisted by secretary Don Braund and the new president "Ab" North. The new president then expressed thanks to past president Tanemura for his wonderful guidance during the past year and wished him luck in his new position as the zone chairman for District D. I. He then presented him with a large Lion statuette, a gift from the club.

Following the ceremonies the evening continued with dancing to the music of Pettman's five-piece orchestra.

Lots Of Fun At Arbuckle

OYAMA (Special) — The new buildings at Camp Arbuckle were officially opened on June 7 at 2 p.m. The Oyama Camp of Girl Guides and Brownies participated in the ceremony, and were honored when Cynthia Shumay of the Oyama Girl Guide Company, was chosen to represent the girl guides by welcoming the visitors.

Candice Claridge and Colleen Sproule set up an overnight camp, and along with their companions, Donna Dewar, Cynthia Shumay, Sharon Sproule, Laurie Wangler, they extended an invitation to the visitors to inspect their campsites, which showed one of the facets of guiding. The brownies played games and enjoyed mingling with the brownies from other companies. The Oyama group committee helped with the refreshments for the open house. Camp Arbuckle has been enjoyed by the Oyama company for several years now, and with the added attraction of the new buildings camping at Arbuckle should prove to be even more fun.

HARD ON HEARING
EDMONTON (CP) — Farmers and drivers of earth-moving equipment are among the persons most affected by high noise levels—noise that will damage permanently their hearing ability, Keith Smith, a hygienist with the Alberta Industrial Health Services, told the Alberta Public Health Association. He warned that too much noise can cause pain, nausea, fainting, convulsions and even death.

Kindergarten Makes Plans

RUTLAND — The Rutland Kindergarten Association is already making plans for the 1969-70 term. The association, which uses the former Rutland Women's Institute Hall on the Centennial Park property, remodelled and furnished to suit its purposes, is holding a meeting at the Centennial Hall, June 16.

The meeting will enable parents who have registered youngsters for the new term, to discuss important items of business in connection with the operation of the kindergarten. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m.
